RE: Dental Insurance

Due to the many changes in insurance policies, it is a difficult task to interpret each individual policy. Although we try to stay aware of these changes, it is not always possible.

It is your responsibility to know your individual coverage. Failing to comply could result in you, the patient, being responsible for all cost incurred.

Your insurance and the coverage they provide are between you and the insurance company. It is not a matter between the dental office and your insurance company. We bill the company as a courtesy to you. Ultimately if the insurance company rejects the claim, you are responsible for any amount owed.

Please contact the insurance company for the exact benefits allowed for your particular procedure.
